KC TO MEET

"From Nazareth To Calvary" From Nazareth to Calvary stretches an austere country which, to the Christian, is more than country-a spiritual landscape.

Here the Easter drama was consummated. Pilgrims have long sought it out, and today there are tourists, too. The Sea of Galilee . . . the road to Jerusalem . . . a garden called Gethsemane . . . the Mount of Olives . . . the Holy Sepulchre . . .

No shrines could be more precious to Christendom than these evocative settings for a story that transcended man and history. Centers of veneration for nearly 2,000 years, they exist still, rooted in tradition, in what is now

Recently, AP Religion Writer George Cornell visited them on his travels through the Holy Land. From his impressions and observations, he has created a moving, sensitive series of articles that skillfully blend the past with the present, the Scriptural with the contemporary.

Readers of The Gettysburg Times may follow Mr. Cornell as he retraces the road that Jesus traveled from Nazareth to Calvary and memorably describes the locale, the sacred associations, and the climactic moments of Christ's last week on earth.

The series has five parts, starting with Nazareth and Galilee and leading on through the road to Jerusalem, Gethsemane, the path to Golgatha and the Holy Sepulchre.

The series of articles starts Monday, April 16, in The Times. Don't fail to read them.

PILATE'S WIFE

"When he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man . . . "

-Matthew XXVII:19

Matthew gives us only this brief glimpse into the life

Perhaps her only importance for the writer of the Gospel narrative was that one moment when her life touched that of Jesus and she intervened to save Him because she had "suffered many things this day in a dream because of him."

An apocryphal writer says that her name was Claudia Procula, which suggests that she may have belonged to the noble and influential family of that name in Rome. The fact that Pilate was able to take her with him to Judea lends support to such a view. There was a Roman law forbidding pro-consuls to take their wives with them when they went to rule in foreign lands. Her reference to Jesus as "that just man" suggests a previous and accurate knowledge of Him. Had she heard His message, and was she, too, a secret disciple, like Nicodemus? Such a thing is not impossible. As several historians have pointed out. Roman women of that day were beginning to show a great interest in Eastern faiths, which offered more personal promise and satisfaction than the Latin cults. In Rome itself, a great number of patrician women had been initiated into the Mithraic religion. Scripture does not tell what Pilate's reaction was to his wife's note. But there is little doubt that it strengthened his own resolve to release Jesus.

The fact that Pilate did not have the personal courage to persist in that resolve, even at the possible cost of losing his own position, was no fault of his wife.

The Greek Orthodox Church thought so highly of Claudia, in fact, that she is revered as a saint by members of that denomination.

Detroit at Washington, the only other game scheduled, was rained out.

GRAND SLAMMER

Monbouquette appeared to be on his way to another no-support, hard-luck decision until Carroll Hardy blasted a none-out grand slam homer in the bottom of the 12th, spoiling a fine performance by Taylor, who went all the way in his first major league test. It was Hardy's first homer at Fenway Park in three seasons and gave the Red Sox their first runs after 20 scoreless innings. They had lost their opener to Cleveland 4-0.

Carl Yastrzemski led off the Boston 12th with a triple to center. Indian manager Mel McGaha ordered Frank Malzone and Russ Nixon walked intentionally. Hardy stroked Taylor's first pitch into the left field screen. Bob Allison, Dick Rollins and Earl Battey provided the wily Pascual with all the hitting support he needed at Kansas City. Allison had a solo homer, Rollins a home run and a triple and Battey a two-run homer among the 10 hits off rookie starter John Wyatt and two others.

THOMAS E. PIPER

Area Marketing Agent Warm, sunny weather in the past couple of weeks has stimulated the countryside to activity, observes Tom Piper, Penn State extension marketing agent. Backyard gardeners, farmers and particularly commercial vegetable growers have been busily preparing seedbeds and planting seeds. Onions, radishes and sugar peas have been planted; lettuce and cabbage transplants have been set out in the Lancaster area and tomato plants wait in nearby coldframes for a planting date safe from cold weather.

The supply picture is improving at the local produce counter too. Vegetable supplies are increasing as more sections begin harvesting spring crops. California asparagus is now moving in heavy volume, prices are much lower; New Jersey may get an early start if warm weather prevails. Prices on green beans remain firm as the winter crop has been harvested and the spring crop is not quite

Potatoes prevail as an outstanding buy and the new Florida crop will soon appear in volume. Carrots, rhubarb, escarole, endive, green onions, mushrooms, radishes and leafy greens are in ample supply now. Cabbage and celery remain in short supply, prices firm; lettuce, tomatoes and onions have increased in volume. APPLES MOVING
